Regarding the Schleswig-Holstein question we learn that the officials of the Superior Court of Appeal for Holstein have unanimously resolved to refuse taking the oath of allegiance to the new King. Several more German Governments have decided to recognize the Prince of Augustenburg. Meetings are being held in all the large German cities to call upon the Governments to support the claims of the Prince. In the Prussian Lower Chamber two members of name and influence proposed, on behalf of the Liberal fraction, a

We shall owe, according to Mr. Chase's calculations, and allowing the War to proceed on the present gigantic scale up to that time, less than Seventeen Hundred Millions on the 1st of next July,—before which date, we strongly hope, the rebellion will have been crushed. Let us swell which the serpent Secession was hatched, and from which others certainly will be if it be not broken. We think the President has hit the golden mean between severity and weakness, and that the loyal people should rally around him and thus exhibit once more a majestic spectacle of unity, energy, and strength. We cannot afford to divide and quarrel; we must stand or fall together; and the President is, in

The Richmond Enquirer states that Senator Simms of Kentucky and Senator Clark of Missouri have "moved in the Confederate Senate important resolutions and bills against permitting substitutes to be any longer employed" in the Rebel armies. We suggest that the Senators aforesaid endeavor to procure substitutes for the States they now impudently, fraudulently pro-

He knows that Admiral Du Pont only decided not to renew the attack in consequence of the representations by those officers of the helpless condition of their vessels. And he knows that Admiral Du Pont withdrew from the harbor of Charleston in consequence of no apprehensions, but in obedience to positive orders from Washington. Or if, when he wrote his report, he had

THIRD.—In ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-THIRD STREET, at a late hour on Wednesday, a fire broke out in the frame building at the corner of one hundred and forty-third street, near Brookneck Hill, owned by Mrs. M. J. Moly. Loss about $300, uninsured. The fire also extended to the barn of Daniel Devlin, completely destroying it. Loss about $400, insured.
